Summary:

On Friday, September 30, 2011 at approx. 11:00 hrs. an unidentified parent received and unfounded alert through their mobile device, apparently intended for students at Georgetown University (Washington D.C.), warning of a Carlsbad Campus lock down, due to a possible man with a gun on campus.

The concerned parent called the Carlsbad Unified School District and shared this alert information. As a precaution and to insure their student's safety, the CUSD advised the CBPD School Resource Officers and initiated a district wide campus lock down, until the nature of the event could be ascertained.

The Carlsbad Police Department increased patrols around and in the campuses, until all CUSD Campuses were cleared. No suspects or suspicious activity was found.

Students were released from lock down at approx. 12:22 hrs.

Online news sources report that the Georgetown University Law Campus was put on lock down for a report of a man with a gun at approx. the time the unfounded alert was received by the Carlsbad resident.
